Arthur Green, twenty-eight years old, who has a very bad record, was held is charged with felonious assault. in the Lee Avenue Court, Williamsburg, to-day, on several different charges pre-on his sister Mary, whom he bit on the hand.

Policemen Maxwell and Betts were standing a block away at the time, when a small boy came running up to tell them that some one was being murdered. They got to the house just in time to prevent Young Green from throwing all hands out of doors. The young desperado showed fight, and his captors had to handle him pretty roughly before they could get him out of doors.

The complaints made against the young man were one of intoxication by the policemen, a charge of mayhem by Genevieve Green, and a charge of assault by her father. Miss Mary Green was too sick to-day to come to court.

The people of Brooklyn should give you substantial recognition for your fearless and complete exposure of the condition of their water supply. Your story is startling enough to cause constenation in a city inhabited by mummies instead of intelligent beings we claim as citizens of the fourth largest city of the United States.

Who is responsible for the present condition of the water we drink! How long have we been taking into our systems this death-dealing poison. What is our Health Board doing in this most serious matter? Surely there would be serious matter? Surely there would be cholera come within 100 miles of our city. By their inactivity now are they not inviting it? Should not the Health Commissioner be held directly and personally responsible for his dereliction of duty?

This is a serious matter and requires plain, unmistakable language.

The people of Brooklyn owe you a first learned of the defendant, remarked:

'Oh, I guess it isn't necessary. I have one of my own that she gave me.'

Feuertag could not speak English, and he told of his relations with the defendant through Mr. Hummel. He also had a picture of the defendant. The decree was granted.

Elizabeth Murray was granted a divorce from her husband, Joseph, upon statutory grounds. She named Minnie Foster as co-respondent.

The next case was that of Margaret Cozens, accompanied by Detectives Bushea and Henderson, she followed her husband to a hotel at Eighth avenue and Nineteenth street, where they took a room and remained some time. The decree was immediately granted.

Ofelia Sauer was given a divorce from Adolph Sauer upon the ground of fraud.

One Case as an Interpreter.

Judge McAdam, in the Superior Court, listened to-day to the stories of half a dozen men and women who sought to have their matrimonial bonds severed As on previous days, the small courtroom was crowded.

The first case called was that of Levy Cybulsky against his wife, Lizzie. This case introduced Abe Hummel in a new role, that of court interpreter, and the great criminal lawyer acquitted himself nobly.

Cybulsky asked for adivorce upon statutory grounds. Two co-respondents, Benjamin Gotthelmer and Isaac Feuertag, were named. Both testified against Mrs. Cybulsky. The former, when asked to identify a picture of the defendant, remarked:

Committees representating the merchant tailors and journeymen tailors met at 241 Fifth avenue this morning to determine whether or not the proposed reduction of wages should go into effect.

The journeymen stated that the unions they represented had determined not to accept a 15 per cent, reduction of wages. The journeymen then withdrew and the merchant tailors' committee, after a lengthy discussion, concluded to call together all the employees in the movement for a reduction for a conference this afternoon.

It was rumored that seventeen of the thirty-five firms in the combine to force a reduction had withdrawn and expressed the intention of continuing present prices. This was denied.
